 - 152 DOD and Out of State firefighters have been tested
 - 95 passed
 - 57 failed
 - 65 employed
- Saw major improvement since last class after a curriculum update and new instructors.

Discussion was held on moving forward with improvements to the DOD/Out of State Firefighter certification program.

NEW BUSINESS:

Council Member Shawn Hanson

Would like data from fire academies on students who drop and/or fail out of the minimum standards program. When and why they fail/drop, is there an exit interview with students, do they return to fire academy to repeat or go into another area of the fire service, are they leaving with a positive image of the fire service?

Council Member Tom DiBernardo stated that EMS (DOH) is heading in the same direction.

Director Rice stated that the Division is currently conducting interviews with FSFC students relating to attrition rates.

Council member Kevin Reed indicated that data in FCDICE could be used as far as registered students/completion/pass or fail. Many training centers track students after completion to see if they become employed with a fire department. A majority of students who drop/fail out of the program come back.

Council member Tom DiBernardo provided a handout to the Council referencing Florida Department of Health First Responder Suicide Summary 2017-2022. Statistics were provided by year, profession, age, gender, and race.

Director Rice – SFM has been working with OPPAGA (Office of program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability) (research arm of the Florida Legislature), on First Responder Peer Support. Will be putting out a survey to all fire departments (chiefs) to identify support they are currently providing to their employees.

Council member Carlos Aviles requested that SFM put out an additional survey on retention data. Would like to review current numbers and continue with the surveys so year-to-year data will be able to provide trends, etc.

On a motion duly made, Darell Donatto was elected Chairman of the Firefighters Employment, Standards and Training Council.

Motion carried.

On a motion duly made, Aaron Colburn was elected Vice Chairman of the Firefighters Employment, Standards and Training Council.
