Volume 15 | Number 3 | January 17, 2018

Dear Fellow Floridians:

The numbers don't lie. More than 15 percent of firefighters reported having made at least one suicide attempt during their time in the fire service, compared to about 2 percent of the general population. Forty-six percent of firefighters reported having thought about suicide, compared to about 5 percent of the US population. These statistics are alarming and this is what we are fighting to change this session.

There is a measure moving through the Florida legislature that makes PTSD/mental health a covered, on-the-job injury under workers' compensation and I stood with first responder families and Sen. Lauren Book, Sen. Dana Young, and Rep. Willhite to urge lawmakers to support this measure. Our first responders arrive on any emergency scene without hesitation, without question. We can only imagine how difficult it is to face what they see daily. I'm putting the full weight of my office to increase benefits this legislative session for our first responders who suffer from PTSD. It's time Florida steps up for our fearless first responders.

Sincerely,

Jimmy Patronis
Chief Financial Officer
State of Florida

CFO Patronis on Passage of Credit Report Freeze Fee Bill Out of Final House Committee

Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Jimmy Patronis issued the following statement regarding the unanimous approval of House Bill 953, sponsored by Rep. Shawn Harrison (R-Tampa), by the Florida House of Representatives Commerce Committee.

"In today's digital world data breaches have become our reality, and it's important for Floridians to be able to easily freeze their credit to protect themselves from fraud. This vote in the House Commerce Committee is a win for Florida consumers.

"Thank you to Rep. Harrison for his steadfast commitment to eliminating the credit report freeze fee, to Commissioner Putnam for his work with me on this issue, and Senator Jeff Brandes (R-St. Petersburg) for his leadership on this issue in the Senate. I look forward to seeing this measure pass this legislative session."

The next stop for HB 953 is the House floor.

CFO Sponsors Resolution for Florida Thrift Week

Chief Financial Officer Jimmy Patronis along with Governor Rick Scott and members of the Florida Cabinet on Friday signed a resolution declaring January 14-20, 2018 as "Florida Thrift Week." The resolution was done in partnership with the James Madison Institute (JMI), a Florida-based research and educational organization with the mission of keeping Floridians informed about their government, to renew the study and teaching of thrift to Floridians.

"Fifty percent of Americans lack a rainy-day fund and nearly 20 percent spend more than their income," said CFO Jimmy Patronis. "The importance of saving money is deeply rooted in American history and I am proud to sponsor a resolution that renews this historic educational movement. I encourage Floridians to practice thrift each day and strive for financial success."

The Department of Financial Services has a selection of financial education programs developed to help Florida's consumers build financial independence. The most recent financial literacy program, Finance Your Future, is a free, interactive online course designed to educate Florida's middle and high school students to use core money management concepts. The Department recently launched the Finance Your Future app. It is free and available for download in the Apple and Google Play stores.

In addition, JMI offers a free curriculum guide, "All About the Benjamins: Understanding the Value of Thrift", that has been used extensively in Florida high schools to teach students about the importance of thrift and other American values.

"National Thrift Week" was first observed January 17, 1916. The YMCA hosted the event on Benjamin Franklin's 210th birthday to honor his devotion to promoting one of the oldest American values - thrift. Considered as a true thrift advocate, Benjamin Franklin believed in the American people's ability to collectively achieve financial independence through hard work, frugality and generosity.
