Millions of Dollars Recovered for Floridians

Dear friends,

I was very proud to announce this week that the Florida Department of Financial Services helped recover more than $253 million for Floridians during 2013. The recoveries were made possible by investigative and consumer-driven efforts led by our divisions of Agent & Agency Services and Consumer Services, along with the Bureau of Unclaimed Property.

The Department of Financial Services' Bureau of Investigation, which is housed within our department's Division of Agent & Agency Services, set a new recovery record of $5,789,589 in 2013. Nearly $2 million of the amount recovered by the bureau went to senior citizens. The 2013 total surpasses the previous record set in 2010 by nearly $300,000.

One of the most financially significant cases investigated by our Bureau of Investigation in 2013 resulted in a payment of $700,000 in restitution to 123 individuals and small businesses. This recovery was made possible after investigators discovered a scheme in which insurance agents specializing in surplus lines risks were found to be over-charging their clients far above the standard commission they earned on commercial surplus lines accounts.

Our department's Bureau of Unclaimed Property also helped return millions of dollars to Floridians. In 2013, the bureau repaid approximately $221 million in unclaimed property claims payments. These recoveries ranged from money and securities to tangible items such as watches, jewels, historical items and other miscellaneous articles. While the unclaimed money and goods work to supplement the state's education fund, all unclaimed property is available for return to the appropriate consumer at anytime and without charge.

Lastly, our department's Division of Consumer Services' HelpLine helped return more than $26 million to nearly 6,000 consumers during 2013. The division handled nearly 344,000 calls throughout the year in their efforts to assist Floridians with insurance-related questions, complaints or concerns.

VERIFY

Agents should routinely verify the licensure of the companies for which they're selling.

I am very proud of all of our department's divisions and their vigilant efforts to find and return money that rightfully belongs in the wallets of hard-working Floridians. I hope our success will discourage fraudsters and encourage more Floridians to contact us with their questions or tips about missing money or fraudulent scams.

CFO Jeff Atwater Announces 14 Arrests After Investigation Known As 'Operation Flames and Floods' Exposes Multi-Million Dollar Insurance Fraud

CFO Atwater announced the arrests of 14 individuals following a joint investigation between the State Fire Marshal's Office and the Miami-Dade Police Department's Arson Unit. "Operation Flames and Floods," as it was termed upon its inception in November 2012, exposed an extensive scheme to defraud several insurance companies by staging fire and water damage claims to residential homes in Miami-Dade County, Lehigh Acres and Naples. The losses exceeded several million dollars after 13 homes were set on fire and five more reported.

CFO Atwater Announces Two Arrests for Personal Injury Protection (PIP) Insurance Fraud

CFO Atwater announced the arrests of Leonardo F. Marquez Garcia and Dayleann Marie Vallejo-Ruiz, of Miami and Orlando respectively, on charges of insurance fraud. An investigation by the Department of Financial Services' Division of Insurance Fraud revealed that Garcia would do supposed 'initial examinations' on crash victims and refer them to the Injury Rehabilitation Center for physical therapy treatments. Vallejo-Ruiz, the owner of the clinic and a licensed massage therapist, had patients sign blank treatment forms that were sent to the insurance company requesting payment for services never provided.

PIP Premiums Going Down for Most Florida Drivers

The Florida Office of Insurance Regulation (OIR) released a preliminary analysis of the rates submitted by the top 20 automobile insurance companies writing Personal Injury Protection (PIP) insurance and encompassing more than 75% of the Florida market. PIP insurance accounts for only a small portion (about 25%) of a consumer's total auto insurance premium cost; therefore, a statewide average decrease of 13.2% in PIP will result in an overall reduction of 3-4% for a policyholder depending on the coverage purchased.

FSLSO Service Fee to Decrease from 0.2% to 0.175%

The Florida Surplus Lines Service Office (FSLSO) has issued a bulletin to notify surplus lines agents that the service fee charged by the FSLSO will be decreased from 0.2% to 0.175% effective April 1, 2014.

All new and renewal surplus lines policies/certificates with an effective date on or after April 1, 2014 will incur a service fee of 0.175% of the total gross premium as defined in 626.9325, Florida Statutes. All new and renewal surplus lines policies/certificates with an effective date prior to April 1, 2014 will incur a service fee of 0.2% of the total gross premium. The service fee percentage charged on the premium is based on the effective date of the policy. The FSLSO service fee is applicable to single state Florida policies only.

The service fee for all endorsements, audits, installments, cancellations or return of premium transactions applicable to policies/certificates effective prior to April 1, 2014 will be the same percentage as the inception date of the policy/certificate being endorsed.

Make Sure You Don't Miss Important Information From Us

We highly recommend licensees to routinely check their MyProfile account(s) for messages from the Department. We send an email notification at the same time to remind you to check your MyProfile account but on rare occasions you may not receive that email. For that reason, we suggest you add our domain MyFloridaCFO.com to your email software's Trusted or Safe Senders List to ensure you are able to receive email notifications from us. Licensees who have a valid email address on file with the Department, as required by law, are sent important email notifications when something that affects their application, license, continuing education, or appointment(s) occurs. Additionally, we will keep you informed with warnings regarding new schemes and scams being marketed to licensees. You can update your contact information through your MyProfile account. We want to keep you informed in a timely manner of pertinent information. You are still required to abide by the Florida Insurance Code regardless of whether you read the information we provide or attempt to provide.

In The Know

- Keeping you informed is what it's all about

Opening an Insurance Agency

So, you're thinking about opening your own insurance agency? Well, before you open the doors for the first time, a review of the laws and rules affecting insurance representatives and the operation of Florida insurance agencies could be very beneficial to you. After all, you want to maintain a compliant agency. Insurance laws are located in Title XXXVII of the Florida Statutes and in Chapter 69B of the Florida Administrative Code.

Here's a quick overview of the laws and procedures that new (and not-so-new) agents frequently inquire about, along with the applicable legal citations, for opening a major lines* insurance agency. If that's not for you, you can also read the guidelines for opening a title insurance agency and bail bond agency on our website.

*For clarification, when we refer to "major lines" we are referring to those agencies that sell property, casualty, health, and/or life insurance including annuities and variable contracts.

Naming your agency

Florida law prevents you from naming your agency anything that would be misleading or deceptive in any way. Names chosen should not imply that the agency is an insurance company, governmental agency, or any other national or state organization. We will not allow any agency to use a name that does not meet this criteria. s. [626.602, F.S.]

Obtain an agency license

No individual or business can act as an insurance agency unless they possess an insurance agency license for each place of business where insurance is transacted. You apply for a license through MyProfile using the agency's information (Federal Employer Identification Number, etc.). Your agency license must be renewed every three years. s. [626.172, F.S.]

When you apply for an agency license, you will be asked when the agency began transacting. The transaction date requested is the date the agency began transacting insurance business in the State of Florida. This is not the date the agent became licensed nor the date the agency became incorporated. Current fingerprints will need to be submitted to us, if they have not been already, for any individual who is not currently licensed and appointed as an agent, such as an officer or director. Also, if the agency changes its agent in charge, or officers, the agency has 30 days to inform us of the changes. s. [626.541, F.S.]

Designating an agent in charge

Each person operating an insurance agency and each location of a multiple-location agency is required to designate a licensed and appointed agent in charge for each location. You do this when you're applying for your agency license, but if it changes you can let us know through the agency's MyProfile account. s. [626.172 and 626.747, F.S.]

On a related matter, you are required to notify us within 30 days if there is a change in your name, residence address, principal business street address or mailing address, email address, or telephone numbers. This is quickly and easily done by logging in to the MyProfile account for you and/or the agency, depending on what needs to be changed and for whom. Don't forget that there is a MyProfile account for your agent license and a separate account for your agency license. s. [626.551, F.S.]

Display of Agency License or Registration Required

All Florida insurance agencies are required to display the Department-issued agency license or registration prominently and in a manner that makes the certificate clearly visible to any customer or potential customer who enters the agency. Posting your Department-issued agency certificate provides consumers with the information they need to verify an agency's license/registration status before they make a financial decision. Failure to comply with this statute may result in disciplinary action against the agency. Please be sure you've prominently posted your agency certificate today! s. [626.172\(4\), F.S.]

Education Central

- Things to know about your continuing education

Three Important Tips for Remaining CE Compliant

You're in the insurance business to help people protect their dreams, livelihood, and the well being of their loved ones. It took you time, energy, and money to qualify for the license allowing you to do that. You want to be sure that non-compliance with continuing education never denies you the right to continue on this journey.

Below are three tips to help you:

Tip #1: Review Your Transcript Regularly

Have you ever found you were denied credit for a course because you took it twice within a three year period? Have you ever questioned if an education provider reported your course completion to the Department? You may have even invested time and money forwarding certificates of completion to the Department just to make sure the course is reported.

We have news for you. You can save that time and money, erase those questions from your mind, and prevent possible credit denial by continually reviewing your transcript.

You can review your transcript by logging in to your MyProfile account and clicking the blue 'CE Status' button. The transcript is a running log of all the courses you have ever completed with related information pertaining to each one, including name and dates.

Before you sign up for a course, check to make sure you have not already taken the course within the last three years. After you complete a course, check your transcript to verify it has been reported. Education providers have 21 days from the date of completion to report the course; however, the majority are reported within 10 days. Keep the certificates of completion for your own records.

Tip #2: Monitor your CE Compliance Evaluation Screen

Now that you know where all your completed courses are recorded, find out how they are applying to your requirements for continuing education. In your MyProfile CE Status page you should see the option to view your current and previous cycles of continuing education requirements.

This screen will give you a breakdown of the total hours due and the specific breakdown of those requirements. Depending on your license and the specific cycle(s) you need to satisfy, you may have to take an ethics, mitigation, suitability or even a 5-hour Law and Ethics Update course.

You will also see which requirements you have satisfied and which are still deficient. If you are deficient in any area, be sure to take courses that will satisfy that specific requirement. Lastly, check that date showing just above the requirement table to know when you must complete your courses. The date usually reflects the last day of your birth month.

Tip #3: Ask Questions

You are now educated on what you have completed, what you still need to complete, and the deadline. Go take those courses. To make sure you take the right ones, ask questions!

Unfortunately, there are people who do not have your best interest at heart and may try to offer you a course that is not approved by the Department (see below on how to find those). Therefore get necessary information from anyone advertising courses that will satisfy your CE requirement.

Here are some good questions to ask:

Are you an approved CE provider and what is your approved number with the State of Florida?

Is this course approved and what is the approved course number with the State of Florida?

Will I get credit for this course?

How many hours is the course approved for? Are those hours split between multiple requirements?

Will this course apply to the specific requirements I need?

How to Search for Approved CE Courses

Looking for continuing education (CE) courses to be sure you get all your hours completed? Our online course search can easily help you by listing those courses approved by the Department.

1. Go to our website at www.MyFloridaCFO.com/Division/Agents.
2. Click on MyProfile on the left panel and log in to your account.
3. Once in your MyProfile inbox, click on Locate at the top left. Then click on Future Course Offerings.
4. Select the Course Authority for the type of license held or course you need to take.
5. You can also make other choices, like Study Method and Location, to narrow your search results.
6. If you click on Perform an Advanced Search, you will have additional options to narrow your search results, such as Course Date and Course Level.

Because many factors may affect your continuing education requirement (e.g. licenses held, number of years licensed, etc.), we encourage you to periodically check your MyProfile account to determine your individual continuing education compliance requirements and status. You will also be able to find more approved CE courses after logging in to your MyProfile account versus the public search option, which limits the results to the first 100 course offerings.

Education Providers: Conference Call Tips

The Education Unit recently conducted a test conference call in an effort to work out any system issues and enhance the conference call experience. During the test, we found that several callers were receiving a message stating that some presenting features are not available and those callers were not able to view the presentation being shared through Microsoft Lync. We have designed the March conference call around this. If you log on to the conference call and receive this type of error message please stay on the Lync session. As we move through the agenda, the material will be updated and will become viewable.

Test callers also reported an issue with the sound. These callers were not able to hear the audio through the computer speakers. The reason for this is because these callers did not have a microphone and speaker attached to their computer. If you would like to view the presentation and hear the audio through your speakers, you will need to make certain you have a microphone and speaker attached to your computer. When you join the online meeting, select the "Use Lync (integrated audio and video)" option. Otherwise, you will need to call in and listen to the audio over the phone. In that event, you can still watch the presentation on your computer. You will need to download the mini version of Lync, join the online meeting and choose the "Do not join audio" option.

The conference call is held on or around the second Tuesday of every other month. Our next conference call is scheduled for March 11, 2014 at 2:00pm EST. The calls only last 30 minutes and are packed with vital information specific to Florida insurance education providers. We are asking providers to invite the members of their team that handle the items that are submitted to the Department so that we may be able to address any questions or concerns that they may have.

If you have any questions related to the Education Conference Call, please email Education@MyFloridaCFO.com.

Education Providers: How to Survive a Department Audit

Grab your audit survival kit and follow the step-by-step directions. With these tips you won't have to worry about heartburn the next time your school is audited by the Department.

Being the subject of a Department audit does not infer that you did something wrong and shouldn't be viewed negatively. Step back for a moment and think about why audits are performed. It's a process to address procedures that may be in need of attention. So, very generally speaking, an audit is meant to be used as a tool to identify opportunities for transforming procedures to be more efficient and effective moving forward.

Taking that logic and applying it to Department audits we can surmise that they help to maintain the integrity of the education marketplace and promote awareness of the rules and guidelines that are set forth by the Florida Statutes and Florida Administrative Code.

So how do you keep your blood pressure in check? Here are a few tips that will help you survive a Department audit:

- Know the Laws and Rules

Just by knowing the laws and rules you are governed by gives you a huge advantage. This can help keep you out of the penalty box and in the game without missing a beat.

- Remain Calm and Collected

By keeping your cool and maintaining your composure you will go through the audit process with ease. Mastering this key point will allow you think clearly and act quickly so that you can manage your time appropriately to continue focusing your attention on your daily job priorities and fulfill the audit requirements simultaneously.

- Gather Requested Documentation

Gather the requested documentation and submit it immediately so that you can move on. The faster you leap over this hurdle the easier it will be to finish the race leaving you feeling energized and prepared rather than emotionally drained and physically exhausted.

- Stick to the Deadline

Don't procrastinate. It is human nature to procrastinate when the deadline seems so far away. Instead, move quickly to gather the necessary information and submit everything so that you have plenty of time without scrambling at the last minute to get the documentation submitted prior to the deadline.

- Review the Audit and Work Toward Improvement

Once the audit has been released to you for review, look it over and make notes so that you can immediately address the areas that need attention and praise your staff for the items that received higher marks. From here you will be able to make a cohesive plan of action to improve the areas that need attention.

Take these tips and implement as many as you can immediately. Change any part of your process that is not in line with the laws, rules, and guidelines that are set forth. Once audit time rolls around again, you will be much more confident which will keep you from reaching your boiling point. For more information on the laws, rules, and guidelines follow the links on the Education Central page located at www.MyFloridaCFO.com/Division/Agents/Licensure/Education.

Compliance Corner

This section has been created to assist you in keeping your insurance business in compliance. The items are intended as reminders only and are not necessarily the exact text of the Florida Statutes or Florida Administrative Code. The legal cites have been provided for your further reference.

Records Retention and Department Access to Records

With respect to access to records, the Florida Statutes require licensees to have their records readily accessible to the Department. Similarly, the Florida Statutes require that records be made freely available to the Department. The statutes do not allow licensees or agency staff to set pre-conditions on access to records such as making an appointment in advance or sending a letter in advance of what is wanted.

There appears to be some confusion over how long records need to be kept. The Florida Statutes require licensees to preserve their books, accounts and records for at least three (3) years. The preservation of records by computer or photographic reproductions or records in photographic form is sufficient to be compliant, as long as they can be made available immediately upon request.

There also seems to be some confusion over whether or not the Department is capable of maintaining confidentiality over the records we obtain. The Florida Statutes clearly state that the complaint and any information obtained pursuant to an investigation by the Department is confidential. The records could become a matter of public record if charges are filed or any type of disciplinary action is taken.

See Sections [624.318\(2\), 626.561\(2\), 626.601\(6\), 626.748, 648.26, 648.295\(2\), 648.36, and 648.46, Florida Statutes]

Life and Health Agents: Working from Home?

Many life and health agents rent space in a "virtual office" that are typically just conference rooms where the agent can meet with the clients outside of their home. However, the agent's home is usually the place where records are stored. Therefore the agent's home address should be listed as the business address on file with the Department, not the location of the rented space.

You can easily update your address (and other demographic information) online via your MyProfile account.

See Sections [626.551 and 626.749, Florida Statutes]

Title Agents: Advertising to Cover Fees is a Marketing No-No

As a marketing idea you want to offer to cover the wire fee from your customer's bank. Their wire fee is $25 or less so that should not constitute going over the advertising fee limit, correct? No.

The $25 fee that is stated in Section 626.9541(1)(m), Florida Statutes, is for advertising gifts, ONLY.

This fee is the limit each article of merchandise must not exceed when a licensee wants to give a person something that will remind that person of that licensee and his/her services. The examples we often use are coffee mugs, umbrellas, portfolios, pens, key fobs, etc. containing the licensee or business name.

It is important to note that the statute clearly states this must be an article of merchandise. Food does not qualify as merchandise. Gift cards are not considered merchandise.

Offering to cover any fee or charge could be considered to be a violation of Section 626.9541(1)(h), Florida Statutes.

Payment of the customer's bank wire fee by a licensee would be an inducement for a person to use one title agent's services over another.

Case Notes

The following are instances in which licensees or other persons violated the Florida Insurance Code and the administrative action the Department has taken against them. Note: All administrative investigations are subject to referral to the Division of Insurance Fraud for criminal investigation.

Case: The Department received a complaint from an insurance carrier that an insurance agency was allowing used car dealerships to issue auto policies for consumers. Because the sales people were not licensed insurance agents, incorrect discounts were applied, addresses were incorrect, and when the consumers were unable to reach the agent in charge, they contacted the carrier for assistance. The Department found the agency was being operated by a customer representative and an unlicensed individual. The general lines agent in charge was allegedly "out on an appointment" - the same excuse given to several consumers who attempted to contact the agency for help.

Disposition: Licenses of the agent and the agency were both revoked.

Case: A general lines agent pocketed more than $1,200 of a consumer's insurance premium that was earmarked for a community association's general liability policy. The agent's actions not only put the insured at risk, but also exposed the community's homeowners to a potential loss. Compounding matters, the agent defiantly rebuffed the Department's requests to obtain her agency records on the transaction.

Disposition: License revoked.

Case: A general lines agent worked for an agency where cash premium payments were made by consumers. It was determined that she would often collect a lesser than required premium, provide a receipt for the full amount due and then issue a check from the agency's trust account to the insurance company. This agency was a satellite office in another city and therefore, the ownership was unaware until the owner of the agency, during a visit, had a consumer walk in and offered to pay him less than what the monthly premium was.

Disposition: License surrendered for two years.

Case: An investigation revealed that a bail bond agent failed to remit premiums owed in the amount of $4,020.00 to a surety company. It was also discovered the bail bond agent failed to perform all contractual obligations with the Managing General Agent, failed to notify the Department of a change in business location, and failed to make records available to the Department.

Disposition: License suspended for 18 months.

Case: A general lines agent was the manager and direct supervisor of a customer representative at a branch office of an insurance agency. In order to meet quotas set by the agency, the agent instructed the customer representative to alter county property appraiser records to falsely show the insurance applicant's home ownership on 27 applications for auto insurance, lowering the premium and generating additional business.

Disposition: License of general lines agent suspended for 18 months and customer representative's license was revoked.

Case: A life and health agent received two group applications from another agent and then submitted the two group applications as her own to an insurer. The agent forged the business owner's signatures on acceptance forms and forged each employee applicant's signature on the individual applications. In the agent signature area, the agent attested to "personally" contacting and verifying the information for the two groups.

Disposition: Fined $6,000 and placed on probation for two years. The insurer canceled their contract with the agent.

Case: An investigation of a bail bond agent revealed that she executed bail bonds while a judgment entered on a bond issued by the agent remained unpaid for more than 35 days.

Disposition: Fined $1,500 and placed on probation for one year.

Case: An investigation of a title insurance agent alleged that she failed to take reasonable measures to identify the persons executing documents in a real estate transaction. Because of this numerous problems ensued. She was charged with disbursing escrow funds to parties not entitled to receive the monies.

Disposition: Fined $1,000 and placed on probation for six months.
