To whom it may concern;

After a fulfilling career as a securities regulator over the past 15 years and having preceded this experience by private industry employment, the time has come to explore other career opportunities. The goal of future employment is to maintain a presence within the financial regulation community.

My background in financial regulation has provided extensive experience in many financial fields. Exposure to the industry in such a capacity is an excellent opportunity to understand the many facets of the financial industry including but not limited to multiple investment adviser models, mortgage, banking, insurance, credit unions, credit counselors, debt management companies, as well as broker dealers.

Please accept my resume and cover letter as a proper introduction and willingness to communicate with your department to promote an open dialogue.

Best regards,

Jason Juretich, Esquire
